Agricultural Tours in Beijing:

Liuminying Ecological Farm: Liuminying Ecological Farm is actually a model ecological village. It was acknowledged in 1986 by UN Environment Planning Office. The village is comprised of 250 households and 861 farmers. The farm is focused on production through use of natural energies without harming the environment. Liuminying Ecological Farm includes a high-tech organic agricultural model garden, an ecological farm, an agricultural park, a large-scale energy switching station, and a conference and recreation center. All in all, the farm covers an area of 145 hectares

Shunyi Agriculture Hi-tech Pilot Zone: Beijing Shunyi High Technology Agricultural Pilot Zone is a municipal scientific and technological agricultural pilot zone established in 1995 as per approval of Beijing Municipal Government, with a land area of 5,000 hectares and 26 enterprises in zone. The pilot zone is integrated with modern agriculture exhibition, transformation of agricultural science and technology achievements, incubation of high-tech enterprises, education of youngster science popularization and agricultural sightseeing and has formed an industrial cluster mainly of animal husbandry seedling and breeding, exquisite flowers, sapling, sightseeing, logistics and distribution and information service. Its development mode is government-guiding, enterprise-operation, expert-participating and peasant-benefiting. The zone has gathered such large-scale agricultural enterprises and sightseeing gardens as Beijing Jet Green Biological Technology Center, Beijing Shunxin Evergreen Vegetable Co., Ltd, Hanging Garden Production and Sales Center, Hundred-mu Peony Garden, fruit and vegetable-picking garden and Xingluyuan Biological Science and Technology Center.

Xiaotangshan Modern Agriculture Science and Technology Demonstration Park: The Xiaotangshan Modern Agricultural Science Demonstration Park was officially named Changping National Agricultural Park by six ministries including the Ministry of Science and Technology in 2001. It is one of 36 national agricultural parks and the only agricultural science demonstration park in Beijing. In past years, the park has won nine national titles including "National Agricultural Science Park", "Imported Technologies Promotion and Demonstration Base", "Demonstration Site of Industrial Tourism and Agritourism", and "National Education Base of Popular Science". It is also the "Beijing Municipal Base of Popular Science Education", and "Beijing Municipal Base of Patriotic Education".

	Beijing's Olympic Stadium: Affectionately known as Bird's Nest, it is situated in Olympic Green Village, Chaoyang District. It was designed as the main stadium of 2008 Beijing Olympic Games. The Olympic events of track and field, football, gavelock, weight throw and discus were held there. Since October, 2008, after the Olympics ended, it has been opened as a tourist attraction. Now, it's the center of international or domestic sports competition and recreation activities. The design of this large stadium was accomplished together by Swiss architects Jacques Herzog and Pierre de Meuron and Chinese architect Li Xinggang and the others. The designers didn't do any redundant disposals to the look of the stadium. They just exposed the steel structures entirely and let them become the most natural appearance. The form of the stadium looks like a big nest which embraces and nurses human beings. Also it looks rather like a cradle bearing human beings' hope of the future.

SWFC building: Shanghai World Financial Center is a super high skyscraper in the city as well as the highest in the mainland China with a height of 492 meters. It is a multifunctional office-based building combining offices, commerce, business, conferences, hotels, exhibitions and sightseeing. Embodies the concept of Vertical Garden City and incorporates the building company's vast know-how and experience, the project offers office space with cutting-edge specifications and all the expected functions of a world-class international financial center.

TV Tower (Picture Stop Only): The Oriental Pearl TV Tower stands on the golden land of Lujiazui in Pudong New Area, facing the Bund on the opposite bank of the Huangpu River. With a height of 468 m (1,535 ft), the tower is the highest of its kind in Asia and the third tallest building in the world. It is now regarded by the world as the symbol of Shanghai.

Huang Pu River cruise: Huangpu River, the symbol as well as the mother river of Shanghai, is famous for a marvelous collection of the quintessence of the city scenes along the river, where the past, present and prospects for a brilliant future of Shanghai are expressed incisively. Contrasting to the very traditional river traffic of barges and ferries, sailing under the futuristic Yangpu Bridge and down the Huangpu River towards the East Sea, the views of the full sweep of the Bund (the exotic architecture museum), cityscape of Pudong (the miniature of Shanghai) as well as the typical scene "two dragons are playing with a pearl" can be well enjoyed. Huangpu River Cruise is just one of the best ways to have a look both old and new Shanghai.
